Tim Corcoran Joins PLZ Aeroscience Sales Team

Addison, IL March 2013 – Ed Byczynski, President PLZ Aeroscience, announced that Tim Corcoran has joined the PLZ Aeroscience sales team as Vice President, Business Development. “With his considerable experience in contract manufacturing of both aerosols and liquids, and his deep knowledge of aerosol packaging systems, adding Tim to our sales team further strengthens our ability to support our customer base and develop new business opportunities,” commented Byczynski.

In his new position, Tim will focus on providing senior account management support for a number of strategic customers in addition to developing new business for all of the PLZ Aeroscience business units in the U.S. and Canada.

Most recently, Tim was Vice President Sales, North America at Precision Valve, a supplier to the aerosol industry. Prior to that, he was in sales at Seaquist for ten years, and was at OSG where he developed their aerosol contract manufacturing business for a decade. Additionally, Tim also had tenures with KIK and Accupac.
